Dear Sir,

I'm a 70 year old woman living in the Wright-Patterson AFB area because my husband (75) is a retiree of the USAF - we met in England in 1955 where I was also in the Air Force (a WAF, we were called then) and serving at RAF Sealand, which the US AF was using at the time, due to space lacking at Burtonwood - anyway, not to get too far off my point - please rethink moving AFIT to Monterey, Ca. The cost would be in the zillions right off and the proximity of AFIT here to the Research Labs at WPAFB is vital to hands on application of learning - the navy may do well in Ca. but housing out there is much higher for staff & students, as well, than it is locally - no, I don't have rental property - or even know any of the faculty, staff or students at AFIT - or any other dog in this hunt; but I do read the papers and talk to people and some are for and a lot are anti-the move. Hopefully, not much of the research will move to Hanscom, MA. but that's another story.

Anyway, thanks for reading this and I really & honestly believe the country is best served by AFIT remaining near the research facilities here.

Sincerely,
Ann E. Brown
