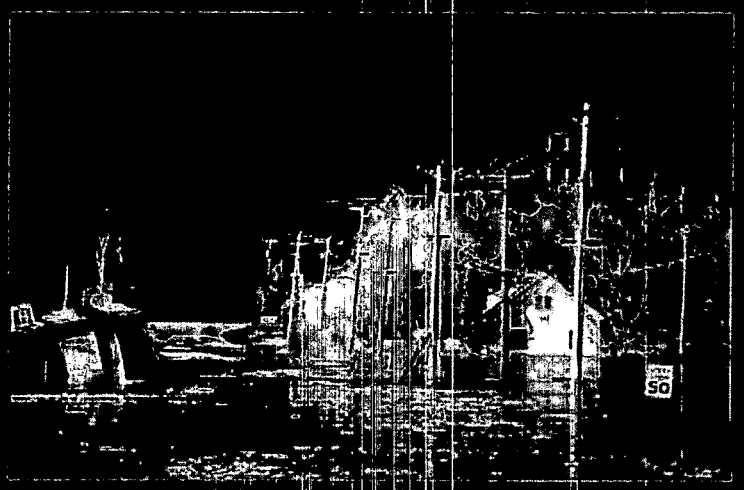
The Bureau of Homeland Security

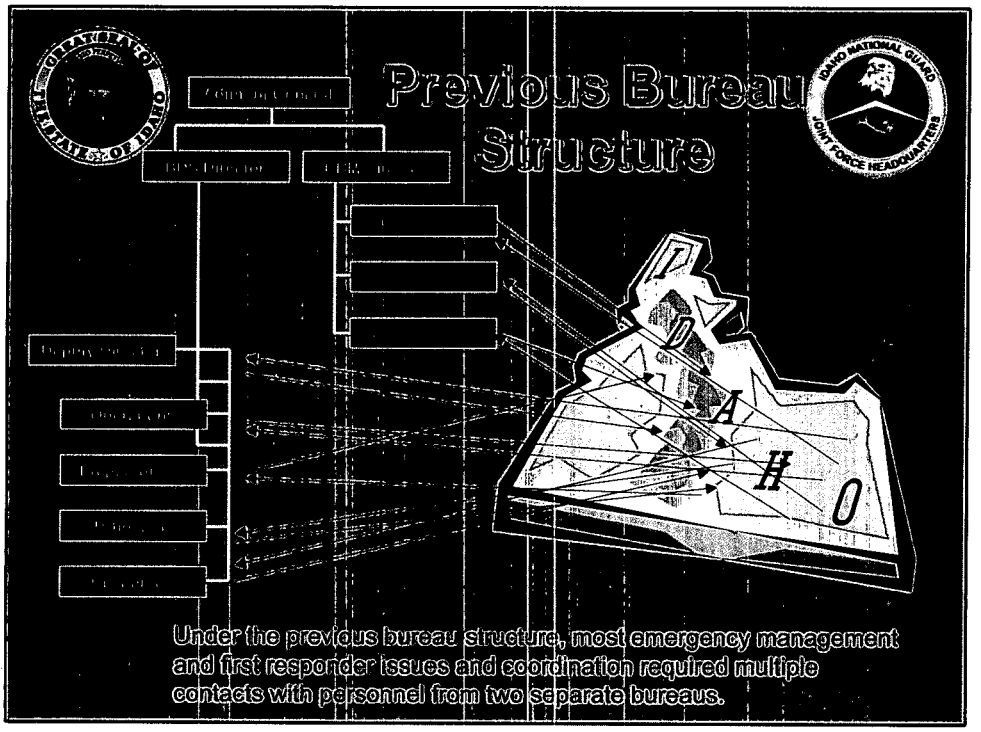


The Bureau of Homeland Security

Executive Order 2003-11 designated a new Bureau of Homeland Security (BHS) to manage operation of the Bureau of Disaster Services and the Bureau of Hazardous Materials.

Legislation has been passed to create the Bureau of Homeland Security (BHS) and direct it to carry out the functions found in the Idaho Disaster Preparedness Act (46-1000 Idaho Code) and in the Idaho Hazardous Substance Act (39-7100).

The Bureau has been formed in the Office of the Governor, Division of Military. The Adjutant General acts as Bureau Chief.



Previous Bureau Structure

Under the Bureau of Homeland Security, all emergency management and first responder issues and coordination will be handled by a single bureau.

Bureau of Homeland Security Actions

- Integrates grant applications and program coordination.
- Streamlines and coordinates statewide emergency preparedness and response systems.
- Develop a single strategy for statewide emergency responder training for chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear, and explosive materials.
