The green colors have been answered by TABs and Air Force. Still standing by for Kat to get back to me on the N/As for Peak Loading.

Gentlemen,

Attached is the new spreadsheet with corrections. Things to note:

- 1.) DI has been replaced by a certified N/A for Carswell
- 2.) The #DIV/0! and #Value! error messages still appear in fields that are calculated. These are not data holes and as such, are not highlighted.
- 3.) The language from the previous Word File should suffice.

Thank you for your time.

v/r,
Lt. Layman

Sir:

Attached is the information you requested. The MS Word Document has a brief description of all Capacity Calculations and two paragraphs on Data Issues. The MS Excel spreadsheet contains the spreadsheet formatted to print on a single vertical page. Please review the attached verbiage, as I am still not 100% informed on some of the MOB history. If you have any other issues or questions, please
