MEMORANDUM FOR Director, The Army Basing Study Group

SUBJECT: Inventory of Army Installations Subject to Review, Survey of Base Realignment and Closure 2005—Interim Report #3 (Project Code: A-2003-IMT-0440.000)

1. You asked us to evaluate the data and methodology used to determine the inventory of Army installations included in the Basing Study's review for Base Realignment and Closure 2005. Specifically, you asked us to evaluate:

- If the data from the Headquarters Executive Information System (HQEIS) used to identify the inventory of Army installations included in the Basing Study's 2005 review was complete, accurate, consistent, and competent.
- If the methodology used to identify the inventory of Army installations included in the Basing Study's 2005 review was in accordance with the law and was applied correctly.

2. To determine if the data from HQEIS was complete, accurate, consistent, and competent, we obtained copies of audit reports that the U.S. General Accounting Office; Office of the Inspector General, Department of Defense; U.S. Army Audit Agency; and other independent audit organizations issued on the reliability and accuracy of the Headquarters Executive Information System (HQEIS). None of the reports we reviewed concluded that HQEIS was completely reliable or accurate. Thus, there is a potential risk of error in using data from HQEIS without testing its reliability. Consequently, we tested the specific data from HQEIS that the contractor used to determine the inventory of Army installations in the Basing Study's review for Base Realignment and Closure 2005. In our opinion, the specific data from HQEIS that the contractor used was reliable.

3. We evaluated the methodology the contractor followed to determine the inventory of Army installations that should be included in the Basing Study's review for Base Realignment and Closure 2005. We determined that the methodology the contractor used was in accordance with law and was appropriately applied. The enclosure lists the 87 Army installations that should be included in the Basing Study's review using the contractor's methodology.
